

I have found it more perfect than I anticipated.

Q. Was that feeling the one had of laxity the result of what people had stated to you? A. I got the impression in various ways.

I am of the opinion, from the experience and the observation I have had, that the discipline is good.

Q. What is the feeling among the attendants as to that? A. That is a matter of impression more than conversation with the attendants. I haven't conversed much with attendants in regard to that matter.

Q. Were you familiarly acquainted with Dr. Barlow before you became connected with the institution? A. I knew Dr. Barlow in 1855. I was in the legislature at that time on the hospital committee, and saw him occasionally during the winter. I have seen him occasionally since at the state ^{medical} association, and he has occasionally visited me and patients of mine. Since I have been on the board I have found a remarkable thing to me, and that is this: Whenever I have asked Dr. Barlow in regard to a particular
