

the water will flood the floor in a minute. There is an unlimited supply of water, which comes from the hill in the reservoir. Our windows are iron sash. Firemen could not get into the windows without breaking the iron sash. There are no bars across the windows except the lodge windows where they have wire netting. Some of the patients ~~in~~ in case of fire would be more excitable than if they were sane and some would not doubt think I could take care of them as easily as I could if they were sane, because the sane would walk out of the open doors. I think however that some people would join the door more than insane people. Some would go out as well as if they were sane and some would assist in putting out the fire.

By Mr. Baker:

Firequent fires have been put out within the last year without the knowledge of the great bulk of patients that any fire had occurred at all. I don't see how
