

- Q. This grocery department covers the food articles does it? A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Then you had the care of all the rough material that goes into food? A. Yes sir.
- Q. For about how many years? A. About six.
- Q. Is this food kept under lock and key? A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Had any other person access to this food but yourself in the first instance? A. No, sir.
- Q. No other person carried the key? A. No sir.
- Q. Did you keep accounts concerning this raw material of food? A. I did.
- Q. Were these accounts of such a nature that that it would show all the food of each class that you received and all you issued? A. They were after the first of it, after I was dead. It had not been the custom to keep any accounts of that kind when I went there. And after the first year or about that time we kept a regular set of books.
- Q. These goods were charged in as they were received and charged out as they were issued? A. Yes sir.
- Q. Then a hoghead of molasses would be charged in as containing so many gallons?