

Ques. When there is on an average 400 patients there, what proportion of them should you think could be let out without endangering their own lives and persons, or the lives and persons of their families. Ans. I do not consider myself competent to judge. I want to give you an illustration. There was a man there whose name was Hunt, a man of education, he was taken in a fit, not knowing what he did he cut his daughter's leg nearly off, made her a cripple for life; he lay in jail six months and then was sent there. He would have a fit and for ten or fifteen minutes after he had a fit, I kept my eye on him, if he had an axe or chisel or hammer in his hand, I never felt safe; when he did not have a fit I would not be afraid to risk a child in his arms.

Ques. Give us if you can any estimate of the proportion of men who you think could be let out without injuring themselves or the community. Ans. I cannot tell.

Ques. What sort of a man is Swoony. Ans. A harmless inoffensive kind of a man.

Ques. Did you know an attendant there named Stuckpole. Ans. I did.
