

patient I have always found him ready on the spot to give me the desired information without referring to any records.
 He seemed to be familiar with the cases I inquired of him in regard to. I have taken pains to inform myself as well as I ought in regard to the manner of his treatment of patients and have felt very well satisfied and pleased with it.
 I give that as my medical opinion with the experience and practice I have had.
 I do not profess to be an expert in insanity however. I speak of the common medical treatment received by patients there.

Q. What is your view of the superintendent's medical qualifications in the way of progressiveness and modernness of treatment? A. So far as I have been able to observe in the course of other hospitals I have felt as though his mode of treatment and general management of the hospital were up with the general average of hospitals, and in advance of some.

Last spring I visited several hospitals, and had several things in view, and among other things the general management.
