

name of Buckeye? A. I did.

Q. Did you butcher that hog? A. I did.

Q. How long since he had ceased to be a male? A. Some where in the neighborhood of 7 or 8 months.

Q. Are you sure it was not under 6 months? A. I am.

Q. Did it make a handsome or bad looking carcass? A. It was nice looking pork.

Q. How much do you think that hog dressed? A. I have forgotten; from five to six hundred.

Q. What did you do with it? A. It was carried from the slaughter house ^{to the kitchen} by the kitchen help.

Q. Have you butchered other such hogs? A. I have.

By Mr. Fall:

Q. Did you eat any of Buckeye? A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Lakin:

Q. Are you sure? A. No, sir, I would not say that I did.

Q. You don't know whether Buckeye went onto the tables or not? A. I don't. I don't know what became of it after it left the slaughter house.

By Mr. Fall:

Q. Was he an Ohio hog?

Mr. Lakin: He was. I bought him myself from a very noted breeder.
