

conclusions, and there is an opportunity for differences of opinion in general management and treatment of patients.

Q. Liable to antagonisms in the management itself you think? A. Yes sir.

Q. Is it your view that that would be destructive of all discipline? A. I think it would tend that way.

Q. I want trouble you to go into reasons in detail. If there is any salient reason you desire to state you can do so.

A. There are some reasons that might be given but I don't know as it is necessary to enter into an argument of the case.

Q. Do you think there are diseases peculiar to women that they would communicate to a female physician that they would not to a male? What is your opinion on that as a practicing physician of 30 years? A. My opinion is that they would not communicate more freely to a female than to a male.

from my own observation and inquiry. I think that the female patients especially in our hospital, are as willing to converse freely with an intelligent male physician as
